In your hour of sorrow you conferred upon us a priceless confidence which we hold to be a sacred trust...

With this trust always in mind we endeavored to serve and assuage your sorrow.

We hope this book of loving memories will continue to comfort you in the coming years...

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:

for Thou art with me.

To those who find themselves bereft of a loved one. May these thoughts we have gathered,
freighted with love and sympathy,
light the way to a greater faith
immortal.

The Twenty-third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

Legend of the Dogwood Tree

At the time of the crucifixion of our Lord, Jesus Christ, the Dogwood tree was strong and was selected as the timber for the cross.

The Dogwood trees were painfully distressed at having been chosen for the worst calamity that has befallen man since the beginning of civilization, and, Jesus sensing their grief for His suffering decreed:

'Never again shall the stately Dogwood tree grow strong enough to be used for a Cross. Hereafter, it shall be slender, bent and twisted; and it shall bear profusely white blossoms in the form of a Cross—two long and two short petals; in the center of the outer edge of each petal there shall be nail-prints, brown with rust and stained with blood, and in the center of the flower will be a crown of thorns. All who shall see it will remember that I was crucified on timber from a Dogwood tree and this tree shall not be mutilated nor destroyed, but cherished and protected in memory of Me."

And so, today upon the hillsides the Dogwood tree grows, its branches slender, bent and twisted, as the legend promised, bearing each spring its snowy blossoms and each autumn its blood-red berries.

Crossing the Bar

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out
the boundless deep,
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark;

For though from out our bourne
of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.

Dear Buddy -

Arrived home safely about 9:30 this morning.

The children were very anxious to hear how you were, and all the news I had to tell them.

My heart aches for you and I know how hard and lonesome it will be for you, but time is a great healer, and our faith seems to see us through.

You will find much comfort in knowing you had such a long happy married life and you did everything possible for Bertha, right to her last beautiful resting place.

You should feel very satisfied with how nice everything was handled, and such a lovely service.

Now Buddy please try and rest up, as you have ~~had~~ had a long hard time under strain, and need a good rest. Take your time in trying to decide your future plans, so you will be satisfied.

I will miss Bertha as she was always very near and dear to me, even if we did not see each other too often, she was a real friend, and I'm sure they are all together up there.

Do write when you feel able. Thank you so very much for all your kindness, our love to you

from all

Vernon
